Andrew Welch vs. Planter

The bark Andrew Welch and the bark-utine Planter yesterday finished a twenty day race from H n lulu to this port. The An dr w Welch won, but the Planter dropped her anchor less than an hour later. The vessels left Ho polulu together and arrived off the Head about the same time. The wied, which for some time past has been blowing with too much force, has now died down altoge her, and during the last twentyfour hours quite a fleet of becalmed wind jammers has gathered between Farall one island and the G Iden Gate. The Andrew Welch and the Planter were becalmed al ng with the others, and the only reason for the bark's victory was that she got t whoat first .-& F. Chroniele, Jan. 20.

ITEMS FROM HARBOR FRONT

The S S Nippon-Maru, Evans commander, arrived off port at 12:15 a m today, after a splendid trip of 6 days and 43 minutes from San Francisco.

The chief steward of the Mauna Loa and one of the engineers of the same steamer, had a bit of a tussel shortly after the arrival of that boat yesterday.

The Moana hauled alongside the Inter Island wharf this morning on secount of the occupancy of the Pacific Mail and Oceanic wharfs by the other foreign steam-

The OSS Mariposa, Hayward commander, arrived in port early this morning, baving sailed from Fine Residence For Sale. San Francisco at 2 am January 26. The very finest kind of weath er was experienced throughout the trip. The Mariposa brought quite a large list of passengers for this port. The short delay was due to the mails.
